

As we sometimes get passive about breaches, it is important that we all pay attention to the details surrounding the most recent big breach. From Mid-May until July 29, the Credit reporting agency Equifax suffered from unauthorized access to their systems. The current breach will impact and estimated 143 million Americans. That is approximately 44% of the population of the United States. Information obtained during the breach includes names, Social Security numbers, birthdates, addresses, and some drivers' licenses. Credit Card numbers for 209,000 consumers and dispute documents for 182,000 consumers were also obtained. If your Credit Card number or a dispute document was obtained, you will be notified by Equifax sent by mail.

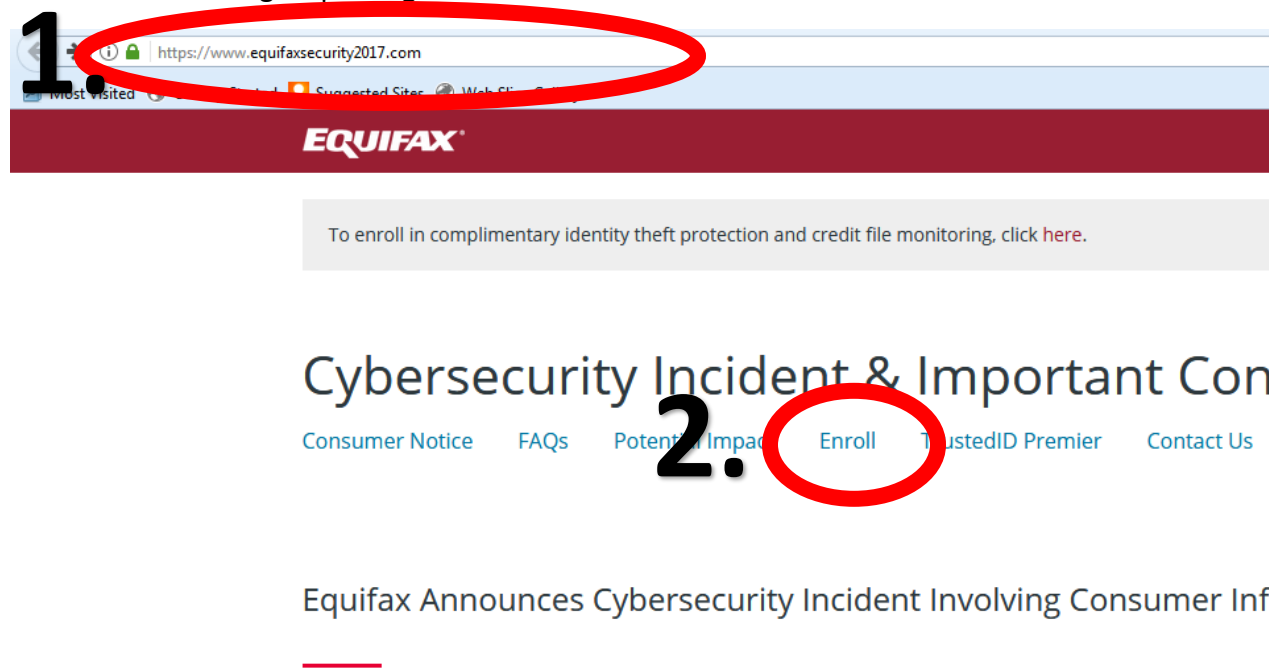

Here's what you can do:

Check to see if you may have been impacted by the breach

Equifax has created a site where you can query if you may have been impacted and then an enrollment date for which you can enroll in TrustedID Premier free for 1 year.

Visit www.equifaxsecurity2017.com to see if you may have been affected.

Follow the following steps for guidance if needed.

If you have questions, you can call Equifax from 7am-1am Eastern time every day: 866-447-7559
